Bishop Shanahan High School, Downingtown, is having its opening school liturgy today.

Main celebrant will be the Rev. Joseph Serugo of the Apostles of Jesus, who is stationed in the mission village of Ibanda, southwest Uganda.

Attendees are invited to bring a small donation and can wear flip-flops or sandals to school as a sign of unity with the missionary efforts in Uganda.

The Rev. Matt Guckin, Shanahan's campus minister, met Serugo on a mission trip to Africa in July. The mission group, Building a Bridge to Uganda, founded by Chuck Ormsby, a Bucks County attorney, provided medical supplies, hundreds of pairs of shoes donated by Crocs Shoes and suitcases full of toys.

Alumni Elise Vietri, class of 2009, and Marie Anthony, class of 2006, will also speak at the celebration.
